Both Found the Bill, in Their Opinion, Dangerous, But Did Not Know of Amendments.

When Mr. Shackelford sat down the insions. Both of us reached the conclusion that it was a bad bill. In fact, it is my opinion that under this bill a mutual life assurance society could come into the State and do business without being subject to the laws of the State. This is my opinion, and I have no apology to offer for having expressed it."

"Did the senator from Lynchburg take note of this amendment to the bill?" asked Mr. Shackelford, reading the amendment.

removed the student was releved of that there was some implication that he was trying to slip in a dangerous bill.

This was in no respect the intent of the publication with reference to Mr. Shackelford or anybody else, and if the article created this impression, notwithstanding the attempt to guard against it, it was unfortunately worded. The sole purpose of the article was to outline the objections rulsed by certain senators to certain provisions of the bill, and the statement of their position with reference to the matter was scrupulously correct. In discussing the bill with the Timeston or persons whatsoever, but simply expressed their opinion as to the bill itself. On the other hand, these gentlement were unaware that a substitute and several amendments had been offered, and were referring to the printed bill. Mr. Shackelford said yesterday that the substitute removed all objections so far as the advocates of the bill were informed of them, and that important changes had been made from the printed bill. One of the amendments proposed is us follows:

"Provided, however, that nothing in this section shall be construed to exempt such associations, orders or societies from the operation of any law governing pleading and evidence, in suits or actions on insurance policies or certificates, nor to exempt such associations, orders or societies from the purisdiction of any insurance department which may hereafter be established."

The next will be to permit the State of Maryland to lease out all the ground used by both States, and divide the revenue with Virginia upon an equitable basis. The ground above Cobb's Point is to be reserved for seed productions for both States, and is not to be dredged by either.

Take Hopeful View.

The following dispatch came from Nor-

law just as it is when returned from Hichmond, unless there should be an almendment requiring its submission to a vote of the people as a referendum for approval or rejection. Mr. McIlwaine, who favors the charter as it stunds making the board of control appointive by the mayor and elective by the councils, expresses the belief that the document will come back to Norfolk amended, making the board elective by the people. It is well known that the majority of the General Assembly is politically in harmony with those citizens of Norfolk who are advocating the election of the board by the people."

Wilson, librarian of the Senate, who has not been able to attend any session of the General Assembly up to this time, has been a source of much regret to the men around the Capitol. Mr. Wilson is very well known. Though somewhat improved in health, he is still unable to leave his residence. The Senate yesterday adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Senate has heard with prefound regret of the continued illness of one of its most beloved officers. Mr. William Wilson, the librarian, who has been for thirty-six years a faithful attache of the Senate, and who is affectionately remembered by each and every member with whom he has served. We sympathize with him in his lilness, and wish him a speedy recovery.

Resolved, further, That indefinite leave of absence be granted him.

The position of the fraternal order men is set forth at length in a statement issued yesterday, which declares that the bill now pending in the Senate as a matter of fact, defines and regulates fraternal beneficiary orders, exacts from ternal beneficiary orders, exacts from them annual reports and prescribes official examinations, so that instead of giving them broad powers, regulations and restrictions are placed by the Senate bill upon these beneficial societies, which has heretofore not been the case. As the matter now stands, these orders operate in the State without having to comply with any requirements, and the legitimate in structure are in favor of a law such as is embodied in the Senate bill, because it is on the same lines that nearly every other State has enacted for the regulation of these beneficial associations.

It seems to have been always the case that old-line insurance interests are antagonistic to these fraternal orders and

Hon, Marshall B, Booker, the judior member of the House from Halifax, will to-day offer a joint resolution calling upon the Corporation Commission to fix a passenger rate of two cents per mile, applicable to all railroads and to all passengers in the State.

The resolution will not conflict with the bill offered by Mr. Churchman, of Augusta, which is how upon the calendar, and which provides for a two-cent rate only where thousand-mile books are sold.

Mr. W. Samuel Burnley, of Charlottes-ville, the new clerk of the House Insur-auce Committee, is making a fine reputa-tion for himself. Mr. Burnley is highly regarded as a man of ability in his line by Colonel A. M. Bowman (chairman) and the other members. He is a lawyer and was once a can-didate for the Democratic nomination for the House in Charlottesville and Albemaric county.

Miss Margaret Forkel, a young lady of fine appenrance and address, was on the floor of the House yesterday, solining aubscriptions for a magazine, and her efforts were accompanied with great success. Miss Forkel secured autograph orders from Governor Swanson and from a large number of legislators for her publication.

The latter replied, and said the remarks of the gentleman from Winchester Impugned his motives in the matter.

Mr. Byrd disclaimed any such intention, and several members said they had not gained such an impression as had been made upon Mr. Withers.

The House finally refused to take up the bill.

An Artist's Whim. An Artists Whim.

In the church of Tasow, in the government of Kursk, Russia, the altar piece is a painting of the last judgment, the foreground being a vivid representation of hell. Among the figures of lost souls a prominent position is occupied by Tolstoi, whose portrait presents a fairly good likeness. The painter's name is unknown, but that his work is appreciated is shown by the fact that the town authorities paid $125 for the picture.
